- Explored concepts of faith, morality, and religious values through scriptural study and group activities.
- Developed listening and comprehension skills by engaging with biblical readings and discussions.
- Practiced memorization and application of scripture verses as part of the AWANA curriculum.

Character Education

- Learned about virtues such as kindness, honesty, and respect as emphasized in biblical teachings.
- Practiced self-discipline and responsibility through structured participation over the two-hour period.
- Experienced the importance of community and fellowship in a spiritual and social context.
- Reflected on personal values and behavior in relation to moral lessons imparted during the session.

Tips

To deepen Atlanta's understanding and personal connection to her AWANA and Bible study experience, consider integrating creative storytelling sessions where she can retell or dramatize Bible passages. Encouraging journaling or drawing reflections about what she learns can help personalize the concepts. Inviting her to create a small project focusing on a virtue or biblical character might inspire empathy and moral reasoning. Additionally, discussing how biblical lessons apply to everyday challenges can make the spiritual teachings more immediately relevant and tangible.
