

English Language Arts

- The fourth-grade child has learned about different types of sentences such as declarative, interrogative, imperative, and exclamatory.
- They have also practiced using correct punctuation marks in their writing, including periods, question marks, and exclamation marks.
- They have developed their vocabulary skills by learning new words and their meanings through interactive activities.
- The child has improved their reading comprehension skills by reading and answering questions about various texts.

For continued development, encourage the child to write their own stories or poems using different types of sentences. They can also create flashcards to learn new vocabulary words and practice using them in sentences. Reading books and discussing them afterwards can further enhance their reading comprehension skills.

Book Recommendations

- Charlotte's Web by E.B. White: A heartwarming story about friendship between a pig named Wilbur and a spider named Charlotte.
- The BFG by Roald Dahl: Join Sophie as she embarks on an adventure with the Big Friendly Giant to save the world from evil giants.
- The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe by C.S. Lewis: Step into the magical land of Narnia with four siblings as they battle the White Witch and fulfill their destiny.

If you click on these links and make a purchase, we may receive a small commission.