

English Language Arts

- The Second-grade child learned how to classify words into different categories based on their meaning.
- They practiced identifying synonyms and antonyms for given words.
- The activity helped them understand the concept of homophones and how words can have different meanings.
- They also learned how to use context clues to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words.

Continued development can be fostered by encouraging the child to read books with diverse vocabulary and discussing the meanings of unknown words. Engaging in word games and puzzles like crosswords, word searches, or creating their own word classification activities can further enhance their understanding of word meaning.
