

- The child learned about different music genres and their characteristics.
- They learned about famous composers and their notable works.
- They learned about musical instruments and their sounds.
- They learned about musical notation and how to read basic sheet music.
- They learned about rhythm and timing in music.
- They learned about musical terms and vocabulary.
- They learned about the history of music and its evolution over time.
- They learned about different musical styles and their cultural significance.
- They learned about famous musicians and their contributions to the music industry.
- They learned about the elements of a song, such as melody, harmony, and lyrics.

Continued development related to the activity:

1. Encourage the child to explore different music genres and artists on their own. They can listen to various songs and try to identify the genre and characteristics they have learned.
2. Provide opportunities for the child to learn to play a musical instrument. They can take lessons or use online resources to practice and develop their skills.
3. Encourage the child to create their own music compositions. They can experiment with different melodies, harmonies, and rhythms using online music composition tools or traditional instruments.
4. Attend live music performances or concerts with the child to expose them to different styles of music and performances by professional musicians.
5. Encourage the child to participate in school or community music programs, such as joining a choir, band, or orchestra, to further develop their musical abilities and meet other young musicians.