

Social Studies

- The child has learned about the different continents and oceans by labeling them on the globe worksheet.
- They have also gained an understanding of the concept of the Earth as a spherical shape.
- Through the activity, the child has developed fine motor skills by carefully writing and coloring the labels on the globe.
- They have learned about the importance of maps and globes as tools for understanding the world around them.

Continued development can be encouraged by providing the child with more opportunities to explore maps and globes. They can be encouraged to play games that involve identifying continents or oceans, or even create their own maps of imaginary lands. Additionally, introducing books or videos about different countries and cultures can help expand their knowledge and spark their curiosity about the world.
