

Why Do Cats Hide?

Cats are very interesting animals! One reason they like to hide is because it makes them feel safe. When a cat is in a hiding spot, they can watch everything around them without being seen. This is like playing a game of hide and seek!

How Cats Hunt

Cats are also great hunters. When they sneak up on something, they are practicing their hunting skills. They can quietly sit in their hiding spot for a long time until they are ready to pounce. This helps them catch birds, mice, or even toys! Sneaking up quietly means they can surprise their 'prey' and have a better chance of getting it.

Staying Calm

When a cat hides and then sneaks up, it shows they are calm and comfortable. A relaxed cat is often a happy cat! They know they can take their time, and that is perfectly okay.

Conclusion

So, whenever you see your cat hiding or sneaking around, remember that it is natural behavior. It's their way of playing, hunting, and feeling safe. You can even join them by playing games of hide and seek with your cat!
