

Hi there! Let's talk about how monkeys can jump and hop just like little acrobats!

Monkeys are very playful animals. They live in trees and they love to move around by jumping from branch to branch. When monkeys jump, they use their strong arms and legs to push off the branches and fly through the air.

Just like you might hop around when you play, monkeys hop and jump to get from one place to another. Sometimes, they swing with their arms, called swinging or brachiation, and sometimes they jump with their legs.

So, monkeys are like nature's little acrobats because they can jump, hop, and swing very easily and quickly!
