

Ice Cream Van Warnings!

Hey there! Have you ever seen an ice cream van driving around with fun music playing? It's super exciting because they sell yummy ice cream! But do you know that ice cream vans also make sure drivers are careful when they are around?

When an ice cream van stops to sell ice cream, it needs to warn the drivers nearby. It does this in different ways:

- Flashing Lights: Sometimes, ice cream vans have special lights that blink like a police car. These lights help drivers see that they should slow down.
- Signs: Ice cream vans might have signs that tell drivers to be careful and watch for kids. This way, everyone stays safe.
- Music: The fun tunes the ice cream van plays are also a warning! It means it's nearby and kids might run to buy ice cream.

So, when you hear music from an ice cream van, remember that drivers need to be extra careful and watch for kids who are excited to get their ice cream. Safety is super important!
