

Police cars are special vehicles that help keep us safe. They are fast because they need to get to places quickly where people might need help. Let's break it down step by step:

1. Helping People: When there is an emergency, like a fire or someone in danger, police cars need to arrive fast so they can help.
2. Speed: Just like how a fast runner can reach the finish line quicker, police cars are built to drive very quickly. This is important for getting to emergencies on time.
3. Special Features: Police cars have powerful engines, which are like strong muscles, that allow them to zoom down the road. They might also have flashing lights and loud sirens to let other cars know to move aside.
4. Training: Police officers are trained to drive these fast cars safely. Just like you practice riding your bike, they practice driving to make sure they can respond quickly and safely.

So, when you see a police car driving fast, remember it's because they are on their way to help people in need!
