

Okay, imagine a big boat called a ship! On this ship, there are many people that help make everything work well. These people are called the crew. They do really important jobs like cooking, which means they make yummy food for everyone. They also clean to keep the ship nice and tidy. And they help the passengers, who are the people traveling on the ship, feel happy and safe.

Now, there is one special person in charge of the crew, and that person is called the captain. The captain is like the boss of the ship. They make big decisions, like where the ship goes and how to keep everyone safe. So, if you think of a ship like a little floating town, the crew are the helpers, and the captain is the one who leads them!
