

Hey there! Let's talk about guitars!

First, we have the acoustic guitar. It's like a big wooden box with strings on it. When you pluck the strings, it makes sound just by itself—like magic! It's perfect for playing songs around the campfire.

Then, we have the electric guitar. This one is different because it needs electricity to make sound. It has a special part that helps it be loud, and it usually has a shiny, cool body. You can play it with big speakers to make the sound really loud, like at a rock concert!

So, the main difference is: the acoustic guitar is loud all by itself, while the electric guitar needs a special power to be loud. They both are super fun to play!
