

Hi there, little one! Let's talk about stones. Stones are hard pieces of the Earth. They come in different colors and shapes. Some are big, like a rock we might see outside, and some are small, like a pebble we can hold in our hands.

Do you know that stones are made of something called 'minerals'? Minerals are tiny bits that come together to make stones! Isn't that cool?

Stones are used for many things. We can use them to build houses, make roads, or even create pretty decorations for our gardens!

You can find stones in your backyard, at the park, or near a river. Some people like to collect special stones or paint them to make them look nice.

Remember, when you pick up a stone, it's important to be gentle with nature. Stones are part of our world and can help us learn a lot about it!
