

Okay, imagine you are playing on a busy street with your toys. Now, think about a really big red truck, called a fire truck, that needs to help put out a fire. To get to the fire fast, it makes a loud sound, like a horn called a siren, and it has bright, flashing lights!

When other cars hear the loud siren and see the bright lights, they know that the fire truck is coming. Just like when you want to get somewhere fast, the fire truck wants to reach the fire quickly to help people and keep everyone safe. So, the other cars move out of the way. This helps the firefighters to drive fast and reach the fire without any delays!

So, the loud siren and flashing lights are like a special superhero signal for cars to make way for the fire truck. Isn't that cool?
