

Imagine a colorful van driving through your neighborhood, playing a happy song. This is your friendly ice cream truck! Here's how it works:

1. Driving Around: The ice cream truck drives around your neighborhood, looking for kids who want a sweet treat. It plays a cheerful song to let everyone know it's nearby.
2. Stopping: When the truck stops, the sliding window of the truck opens. This lets the ice cream vendor, who is the person selling the ice cream, serve treats to all the excited kids.
3. Choosing Treats: Children line up at the window, carefully looking at all the delicious ice creams and other treats that the truck has. There are ice cream cones, popsicles, and even sundaes!
4. Paying: When they choose their favorite treat, they need to pay for it. Kids usually pay with cash, or sometimes parents give them money, so the vendor can give them their ice cream.
5. Enjoying: After getting their ice cream, kids happily walk away, excited to enjoy their yummy treat. Some like to eat it right away, while others might take it home to share.

And that's how an ice cream truck works! It brings joy and cool treats right to your neighborhood.
