

A builder is a person who helps to make things, like houses or big buildings. Imagine you have a toy set, and you want to build a fort. You would follow steps to put the blocks together, right?

Well, a builder does something similar, but with real things! They use tools like hammers and drills to put pieces together. First, they plan where everything should go, just like when you decide where to put your toys in your fort.

Then, they start working, using strong materials like wood and bricks to make sure the house is safe and can stand tall. In the end, a builder helps create places where people can live, work, and play, just like you build your awesome forts!
