

Buses are big vehicles that help people travel from one place to another. Imagine a giant car that can take many friends to school, the park, or even the zoo!

Here's how it works:

1. Bus Stops: Buses have special places called bus stops. This is where people wait to get on the bus. It's like a meeting point for the bus and passengers!
2. Getting On: When the bus arrives, people climb onboard. They usually pay a small amount of money, which helps pay for the bus to keep running.
3. Going Places: Once everyone is settled, the bus driver starts driving. Buses follow certain routes, which are like paths that show where they go. Just like a treasure map, if you follow it, you'll reach your destination!
4. Arriving: When the bus gets to the right stop, people get off and go to their next adventure!

So, buses are like big, friendly chariots that help lots of people travel together. They're safe, fun, and good for our Earth because they can carry many passengers at once!
