

What is a Bus?

A bus is a big vehicle that you can ride in. It has lots of seats inside where people can sit. Buses are usually painted in bright colors, like yellow or blue, so they are easy to see!

How Does a Bus Work?

When you want to go somewhere, like to the park or school, you can take a bus. The bus picks you up from one place and takes you to another place. This is called 'taking passengers places.'

How Do People Use Buses?

- 1. Waiting at the Bus Stop: People go to a special spot called a bus stop, where they wait for the bus to arrive.
- 2. Getting On: When the bus comes, the doors open, and you can get on the bus. It's like getting on a really big car!
- 3. Sitting Down: Once inside, you find a seat and sit down. It's important to sit while the bus is moving.
- 4. Going for a Ride: The bus driver drives the bus along a path called a route. It stops at different places to pick up and drop off passengers.
- 5. Getting Off: When it's your turn, you can get off at your stop. This is how the bus takes people to the places they want to go!

Why Are Buses Important?

Buses are really important because they help many people travel without using cars. This can help keep the streets less crowded and make sure everyone can go where they want to!
