

Why Do Wolves Howl at Night?

Wolves are very special animals, and they like to talk to each other! One way they talk is by howling. But why do they choose to howl at night?

1. Sharing Information: When wolves want to let their family know where they are, they howl. It's like telling a friend, 'I'm here!' Night time is quiet, so their howls can travel far and everyone can hear them better.

2. Finding Each Other: If a wolf gets lost or needs to find its friends, howling helps them to come together. At night, when everything is still, it's easier for wolves to listen and find each other.

3. Protecting the Pack: Howling can also let other animals know that there are wolves nearby. This keeps the wolves safe because other animals will think, 'Oh no, there are wolves around!'

So, when you hear a wolf howl at night, remember that it's their way of talking and staying connected with their friends and family!
