

Imagine an invisible force that is like magic surrounding us all the time. This magical force knows all your secrets, dreams, and fears. It is everywhere, but you can't see it. That's what some people call Divine.

Just like how you feel loved and protected when your parents tuck you in at night, the Divine is like a big, warm, invisible hug that makes you feel safe and happy.

When you see a beautiful rainbow after the rain or a majestic sunset painting the sky, that's the Divine showing you its artwork. It's like the world's best artist creating masterpieces just for you.

Remember when you wish upon a shooting star or blow out the candles on your birthday cake? The Divine listens to your wishes and helps make them come true, like a magical friend who is always watching over you.

So, the Divine is like a loving, invisible friend who makes you feel special, protects you, shows you beautiful things, and listens to your deepest wishes. It's like having a superhero on your side all the time!
