Materials and Prep

- Paper and colored pencils or markers
- A quiet space for reading and discussion
- A timer (optional, for timed activities)
- Knowledge of basic facts about Nelson Mandela's life and achievements

Activities

- Story Time:

Start the lesson by reading a brief biography of Nelson Mandela. Discuss key events in his life, such as his early years, his activism against apartheid, and his presidency. Encourage the student to ask questions as you go along.

- Creative Drawing:

After learning about Mandela, have the student draw a picture that represents a key moment in his life, such as his time in prison or his inauguration as president. Ask them to explain their drawing and why they chose that moment.

- Role-Playing:

Engage in a role-playing activity where the student pretends to be Nelson Mandela. They can practice giving a speech about freedom and equality. You can help by providing some key points to include in the speech.

- Reflection Journal:

End the lesson with a reflection journal activity. Ask the student to write about what they learned about Mandela and how they can apply his values of perseverance and leadership in their own lives.
