

Lesson Plan: Roman and the Omni-Eevee - Crafting a Modern Myth

Materials Needed:

- Plain paper (several sheets)
 - A large sheet of paper or poster board for the final project
 - Pencils, erasers, and a sharpener
 - Colored pencils, crayons, or markers
 - Optional: A computer or tablet for looking up Pokémon types or Roman symbols for inspiration
 - Optional: A "director's clipboard" (a regular clipboard) to make it feel official!

Lesson Overview (For the Parent/Teacher)

This project-based lesson allows the student to become a "Creative Director" for their own story concept. By blending their interest in a Roman-named hero and a unique Pokémon, the student will practice creative writing, character development, visual art, and persuasive communication. The lesson is designed to move from brainstorming and world-building to a final, tangible product: a movie poster for their idea, "Evolution."

Learning Objectives

By the end of this lesson, the student will be able to:

- Develop a detailed character profile for a protagonist and their unique partner.
- Brainstorm and creatively explain a fictional power system (the Omni-Eevee's abilities).
- Synthesize narrative ideas into a single, compelling visual: a movie poster.
- Verbally present their creative concept, explaining the story and character motivations.

Lesson Activities

Part 1: The Mission Briefing (10 minutes)

Teacher's Role: Act as the "Studio Executive" giving the student their mission.

Script: "Welcome, Creative Director! We've heard about your amazing idea for a new hero named Roman and his incredible Eevee. This Eevee is special—it doesn't evolve, but it can use the power of every single Pokémon type. We love this! We want to make a movie about it called 'Evolution'. Your mission today is to develop this idea so we can get started. You'll create the character files, figure out how this amazing power works, and design the official movie poster to get everyone excited. Are you ready?"

Discussion: Quickly brainstorm what makes Ash and Pikachu's bond so special. What will make Roman and his Eevee's bond unique?

Part 2: Character & Creature Profiles (20 minutes)

Task: The student will create a "Top Secret" file for both Roman and his Omni-Eevee. Use a separate sheet of paper for each.

For Roman's Profile, include:

- Name: Roman
- Appearance: What does he look like? Does his clothing have any Roman-inspired designs (like a lightning bolt for Jupiter, or a certain color scheme)? Draw a picture of him.
- Personality: Is he brave, clever, quiet, funny? What is his goal as a trainer?
- Special Bond: Why can't his Eevee evolve? What happened in their past that gave Eevee this strange power and created their unbreakable bond?

For Omni-Eevee's Profile, include:

- Nickname: Does Roman have a special name for his Eevee?
- Appearance: Does Eevee look different from other Eevees? Maybe it has multi-colored eyes or changing fur patterns that hint at its power. Draw a picture of it.
- The Omni-Power: How does it switch between types? Does it glow a certain color? Does it need to touch a special stone that Roman carries?

Part 3: The Ultimate Move - "Evolution" (25 minutes)

Task: In the movie, Eevee unleashes a move that combines ALL type powers into one. This is the big, show-stopping moment. Your job is to design this move.

Brainstorming Questions:

1. What is the move called? (Examples: "Prismatic Burst," "Elemental Chaos," "Unity Beam")
2. What does it look like? Is it a giant sphere of swirling colors? A beam of rainbow light? Does the ground shake with rocks (Rock-type), freeze over (Ice-type), and grow vines (Grass-type) all at once? Write a short, exciting paragraph describing the move in action.
3. How is it activated? Does it require Roman and Eevee to be in perfect sync? Does Roman say a special command? Does it drain all of Eevee's energy afterward, adding to the drama?
4. Draw it! On a new sheet of paper, sketch a storyboard panel of Eevee using the "Evolution" move. Show the cause and effect.

Part 4: The Movie Poster (30 minutes)

Task: Now it's time to advertise the movie! Using the large sheet of paper or poster board, the student will design the official movie poster for "Evolution."

A great movie poster needs:

- The Title: "Evolution" should be written in big, exciting letters.
- Main Image: A powerful drawing of Roman and his Omni-Eevee. Maybe Eevee is glowing with power, or they are standing back-to-back, ready for a challenge.
- A Tagline: A short, catchy phrase that tells us about the movie. (Examples: "One bond. All powers." or "To become the ultimate hero, he must defy evolution itself.")
- "Coming Soon": Add this at the bottom to make it look official.
- Background: What kind of background hints at the story? Ancient Roman ruins? A futuristic Pokémon stadium?

Encourage creativity and use of bold colors to catch the eye.

Part 5: The Premiere (5 minutes)

Task: It's time to share the work! The student presents their movie poster to you (the "Studio Executive").

Presentation prompts for the student:

- "Tell me about your hero, Roman."
- "Explain what makes your Eevee so special."
- "Walk me through the story of your movie, using your poster as a guide."

Celebrate the amazing creative work and "greenlight" the movie!

Assessment

Review the student's work based on completion and creative thought:

- Character Profiles: Did the student include details beyond the basics? Is there a clear story behind the characters' bond?
- Ultimate Move Design: Did the student thoughtfully consider the look and mechanics of the move? Can they explain how it combines different types?
- Movie Poster: Does the poster successfully communicate the main idea of the story? Is it visually engaging? Does it include the key elements (title, tagline, main image)?

Extension Activities ("Sequel Ideas")

- Write Scene One: Write the opening scene of the movie "Evolution." How do we first meet Roman and his Eevee?
- Design the Villain: Every great hero needs a villain. Who is trying to capture the Omni-Eevee and steal its power? Design this new character.
- Create a Myth: Write a short, ancient-style myth or legend that predicts the coming of a trainer and an Eevee with the power of all elements. This can connect directly to Roman mythology.
