Activities

Discuss the characters, setting, and events in the story.

2. Ask the student to think about their favorite part of the story.

Have them draw a picture of that scene on a piece of paper.

3. Encourage the student to write a short story based on their favorite part.

Remind them to include details about the characters, setting, and what happens in the story.

4. Once they have finished writing, have the student read their story aloud.

Discuss what they liked about their own story and any improvements they could make.

5. Allow the student to make revisions to their story based on the discussion.

Have them write a final draft of their story on a fresh piece of paper.

- "When you read your story aloud, how did it make you feel? Did you enjoy sharing your story with others?"
- "What changes did you make to your story after our discussion? Why did you decide to make those changes?"
